A “Remembering G. Fox & Company” lunch and program will be held on March 19th at Centinel Hill Hall, Capital Community College’s historic auditorium, as part of the College’s Hartford Heritage Project activities.

The Hartford Heritage Project, made possible by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, makes connections between course content and the cultural institutions of the city to enhance students’ learning and understanding of Hartford.

The G. Fox lunch program will focus on the history of the beloved department store that became the campus of Hartford’s community college in 2002. Capital Community College is continuing the tradition begun by G. Fox of using Centinel Hill Hall as a community gathering place for arts, culture, and civic engagement.

Tours of campus will follow.

ADMISSION: $25 PP | TICKETS AND INFORMATION: Call 860-906-5102

E-mail: CA-foundation@capitalcc.edu

Hartford Heritage Program | www.capitalcc.edu/HHP | Capital Community College

Any views, findings, conclusions or recommendations expressed in this release do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities

Contributions to the Capital Community College Foundation are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law.