STUDENTSTORY

YAHAIRA GONZALEZ

What your experience was going through the class?

A lot was going through my head when class started. I was mostly worried about the level of difficulty, and if I was indeed capable of passing the class. Thankfully, our instructor made the class easier by using different teaching techniques. I'm personally a visual learner. I learn by seeing and doing, so the fact that we got to do a lot of hands on work as well visual, helped me understand new material a lot faster. He was clear and direct with his teaching and made sure that everyone was on board before continuing to the next topic. Along with a lot of studying and meeting once a week for group study, it made it easy to pass the class and get state certified.

What you're doing now and what you plan to do?

As of now, I'm working for a volunteer ambulance service as an EMT, to gain the necessary experience before moving on to work with a commercial company. My goal is to eventually become a Paramedic. Once I work a few years as an EMT, I'll be going back to school to get my Paramedic license.

Her advice to other students thinking of starting a program:

"Nothing comes easy in life. You must work hard to reach your goals; as impossible it may seem. The key is to not give up. I know it's harder than it seems, but you have to believe that you will make it!"

Building Rapport & Influencing Others

Dale Carnegie knew this well: Being able to connect with people and build rapport, no matter the industry, can help you attain your goals. Conflict is more easily resolved, and it can provide for stronger relationships, both in the workplace and your personal life. Rapport helps us work towards "Yes". "Yes" to company mission. "Yes" to shared goals and objectives. "Yes" to esprit de corps. When you have rapport with people, they are more interested in what you have to say and how they can help you. It can be easier for you to influence the decisions the person is making because of the rapport that you have mutually created.

The Connecticut State Colleges and Universities System, under the Board of Regents for Higher Education, will not discriminate against any person on the grounds of race, color, religious creed, sex, age, national origin, ancestry, present or past history of mental disorder, marital status, genetic information, mental retardation, sexual orientation, learning disability or physical disability, including, but not limited to, blindness or prior conviction of crime, unless the provisions of Section 46a-60(b), 46a-80(b) or 46a-81(b) of the Connecticut General Statutes are controlling, or there is a bona fide occupational qualification excluding persons in one of the above protected groups.

With respect to the foregoing, discrimination on the basis of sex shall include sexual harassment as defined in section 46a-60(8) of the Connecticut General Statutes. Although it is recognized that there are bona fide occupational qualifications, which provide for exception from employment prohibitions, it is understood that these exceptions are to be applied pursuant to Section 46a-68-33 of the administrative regulations. Further, the system will not discriminate against any person on grounds of political beliefs or veteran status. Student Conduct Code

The purpose of the Student Conduct Code is to maintain the general welfare of the College. The College strives to make the campus a place of study and work where people are treated, and treat one another, with respect and courtesy. The College views the student conduct process as a learning experience that can result in growth and personal understanding of one's responsibilities and privileges within both the college community and the greater community. All students must follow these standards. These procedures are designed to provide fairness to all who are involved in the conduct process. Please refer to the student handbook for the full student conduct policy. This handbook is available at the Welcome Center on the 2nd floor, or online at <http://capitalcc.edu/publications.htm>
